Hints

Other than the ideas and startup events pitches that have different types there are also other categories that entrepreneurs can choose from which are pitching for investors or even job interviews under each category users will find several types.

Example

Karam is an entrepreneur who struggled at pitching his idea in front of people so when he searched on the internet he found pitcherificer.com and started navigating the platform and then decided to sign up.

After activating his account Karam navigated through the different pitching categories, then chose to pitch his idea first so he named his pitch, filled up the template below and started practicing his pitch.

He then moved on to the next step which is pitching for startup events and then started practicing again and then he went to different events and started pitching successfully.

After a while, Karam wanted to pitch his idea to get fund from investors he visited Pitcherific again but he found that he must upgrade his account in order to practice the investor's pitch so he did and now Karam is practicing to pitch in front of investors and he is ready to get funded.

Pros and Cons

The tool is user friendly and users can easily navigate through different pitches for free however, users need to upgrade their account in order to have unlimited pitches, customize their pitches, access the investors pitches, export the pitch to powerpoint presentations as well as navigate through different versions of the same pitch unlike the free account that gives makes you save only one pitch.
